

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A method of pretreating a carrier component for a cementitious composition. A quantity of any component of a cementitious composition is analyzed to determine its adsorption potential in the composition. The quantity of the component is treated with an effective amount of a treatment agent to control the adsorption potential.